

stylespy

Fresh and comfortable

as a Petit Bateau T-shirt, the company's first bag is this cuter-than-anything tote, which we plan to buy in every color they make.

COTTON TOTE, $60, PETIT BATEAU, 212-989-8884

When a fashion risk pays off

The greatest fashion minds at Lucky are afraid to mix metallics, yet we spotted this girl on the street, fearlessly strolling around with silver shoes and a gold bag, pulling it off with no small degree of chic. The secret is that neither metallic is too bright or brassy, and nothing in the rest of the outfit competes with them. Who knew?

Our editors' weird fixations

When it comes to finding exactly what we want, the Lucky girls can be alarmingly specific.

GROSGRAIN-BAND WATCHES, $66, PEDRE, THE FINERY SHOP, AMESBURY, MA, 978-388-9535

Hope Greenberg, our fashion director, loves the idea of bright ribbon watches, but they've all been too preppy and not nearly stylish enough—until now.

COTTON "LANDSCAPE" SHIRT, $84, MONA & HOLLY RAYE, HOUSTON, 713-529-1993

Editor in chief Kim France loves the look of a band T-shirt under a blazer, but at 40, she's pushing it. These printed tees are the perfect (and still totally cool) transition.

HAMMERED SILVER HOOPS, $80, MARJORIE VICTOR JEWELRY DESIGN, NABIDESIGN.COM

No one loves a big, beaded, bold earring like editor at large Gigi Guerra. But lately she's been craving a cleaner take on the look, and these hand-hammered hoops totally deliver.

STYLING: LUCKY DIGITAL STUDIO